

Please note this study is provided by a third-party
and not affiliated with the DTRF.

Engage Health has been retained by a biopharmaceutical company who is interested in learning more from desmoid tumor patients based in the US about their experience with clinical trials and with specific therapies in Desmoid tumor. These therapies include:

- OGSIVEO (nirogacestat) used in clinical trials
- OGSIVEO (nirogacestat) used as a commercial product
- AL102 (varegacestat) used in the Part A / Phase 2 clinical trial

Ideally, the researchers would like to speak with individuals who have been on the drug 12 months or longer.

The participant's involvement in the research would consist of the following:

1. The participant would visit a web-based RSVP site to provide consent, answer a few questions to determine eligibility to participate in the research, and provide a few days/times that work to participate in a telephone interview between now and April 18, 2025. It is anticipated that it would take approximately 10 minutes to fill out the RSVP.
2. The participant would be contacted by Engage Health, Inc. to schedule the interview or to provide notification that interview spots are full, if that is the case.
3. The participant would then participate in an approximate 1-hour interview, conducted by telephone in English. At the completion of the interview, the participant would be paid $150 for their time.
4. At the conclusion of the interviews, Engage Health will provide the participant a summary report, but results will be "de-identified" and the participant name will not be shared with the biopharmaceutical company.

Please note that interview spots are limited, so please respond quickly.

Anyone interested in participating or learning more should click this link or scan the QR code below.

Thank you for considering this request. If you have questions about the research, please reach out directly to Engage Health, Inc. at 1(651)994-0510.

Please note this study is provided by a third-party
and not affiliated with the DTRF.